KIDS WILL BE KIDS
BUT I'M PROTECTED

"I never thought much about how much I'm liable for my children until the other evening when an ambulance and police car came a few houses away with the sirens shrieking.

"It was something that any normal youngster might do—toss a rock in play—but it injured a child . . . and over the back fence I heard that somebody is going to pay plenty.

"It wasn't either of my youngsters but believe me, it didn't take me long to call 2641 and arrange with the J. W. Conner Insurance Agency for 'all around' liability insurance . . . covering my family and property and even our pets."

It costs so little to forget about the financial worries involved in personal, property or auto casualties or liability—why not call 2641 or stop in and see J. W. Conner.

He has been in the Army for seventeen and one-half years.

FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Page were hosts Sunday to their eleven children, in-laws and a few friends at a reunion. A picnic dinner was served in the dining room. Rev. G. E. Hughes asked the blessing. Mrs. Hughes and children, Mary Frances and George Edward, Jr. were also present.

All of Mr. and Mrs. Page's children and their families were home for the occasion: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carter, Mr and Mrs Ryland Carter and Roy Carter; Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Deaner and children, Margaret and Cecil; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pugh and children, Joann, Clifford, Donald and Brenda; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carson and children, Carter and Shirley Ann; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Page, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Page and daughters, Connie and Bonnie; Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Guthrie and children, Jerry and Faye; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Page, Mr. and Mrs G. E. Mays, and children, Carolyn, Lois, Irie and Monty Wade and Roy Page.

Sweet Corn Tests Cited

The varieties, Iochief and Aristogold, produced over three-fourths ton more marketable corn per acre than any other variety in sweet corn tests at Virginia Truck Experiment Station this season.

Dr. R. N. Holmaster, associate entomologist at the Station, said those two varieties also ranked fourth and third, respectively, in number of ears, and were of superior quality. Ioana D. R. and Golden Security also were of superior quality. Golden Security again gave the highest number of ears but ranked fourth in total weight. Parade had the largest ear of all and shows considerable promise for the Norfolk area, Dr. Holmaster says.

He said the degree of earworm infestation was so variable in the different plots that no attempt was made to rate earworm damage. This condition was caused by Japanese beetles feeding on the silks and destroying the earworm. Plots heavily infested with beetles had as many as 80-per cent worm-free ears, while slightly infested sections had an earworm in almost every ear.

Dr. Hofmaster says observations over a 5-period indicate that the the sweet corn has been in silk three days or longer. Japanese beetles feeding normally will not interfere with filling or cause any injury other than occasional slight weathering at the tip.

In the tests 13 of the more promising varieties were planted in replicated tests. Forty additional varieties were planted in single plots for preliminary observation.

CHURCH NEWS

West Hanover Presbytery

The Presbytery of West Hanover met Tuesday in the Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church, with 16 ministers, 18 elders and 8 visitors in attendance. Rev. H. Edwin Pickard, of Orange preached the opening sermon, and Rev. Allen C. Anderson, of Buckingham and Rev. George W. Marsoon, of Olivet Church, Albermarle County, conducted the Communion Service. Rev. R. G. Hutcheson, Sr., of Louisa, opened the afternoon session with a devotional service.

Lunch was served to fifty in the Sunday School Annex, in which also there was shown a moving picture of special interest as much of it dealth with the origin and progress of the Old Providence Rural Parish under the leadership of Dr. T. H. Daniel, Superintendent of the Presbytery's Home Missions, and of Rev. R. G. Hutcheson, Sr., pastor of the Parish, both of whom were present.

By unanimous vote, a resolution presented by Rev. W. McIlwaine Thompson of the faculty of Union Theological Seminary, was passed protesting against the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican, and directing that copies of the resolution be sent before this coming Sunday to all the churches of the Presbytery to be read to the congregations with recommendation of protest by the individual churches against the appointment.

90TH BIRTHDAY OF MRS. COLEMAN

On October 18, at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Coleman, her 90th birthday was celebrated. Lots of sweet greetings, beautiful flowers, fruits, candy and many nice gifts were presented. A lovely luncheon, with a beautiful birthday cake in the center of the table featured the occasion. She extends thanks to her loved ones for making her birthday such an enjoyable one.

Fashion Show Winner

Miss Peggy Ellen Cole, Senior at the Appomattox High School, won second place in a fashion contest at the recent Lynchburg Farm Show. She wore a three-piece wool suit, beige jacket and vest with dark and light beige check and matching hat and bag. She designed and made this outfit.

She has been in Home Economics and a member of Future Homemakers of America for two years. She plans to attend Mary Washington College as an art major, and then go to Richmond Professional Institute for study in fashion design.

NEW BOOKS AT COUNTY LIBRARY

Lie Down In Darkness: by William Stryon. This is a book of Tidewater Virginia by a new author. The setting is in Newport News. the story is o. a tragic division and destruction of a Virginia family.

White Man Returns— by Agnes Newton Keith. To the many thousands of readers of Land Below the Wind and Three Came Home, this new book will be as welcome as the return of an old friend. This book tells of the Keith family's release from a Japanese prison camp and their recuperation in Canada, and of their return to the shattered colony in North Borneo.

The Anatomy of Happiness— by Martin Gumpert. An outstanding new book which should appeal to those who liked Peace Of Mind. It is a physician's approach to the problem of individual happiness.

A Man Called Peter— By Catherine Marshall. Author of the outstanding sermons and prayers collected by his wife in Mr. Jones, Meet the Master, Dr. Peter Marshall has become one of the most widely acclaimed Protestant ministers of recent years. This is a true story of a great and warm personality. This new book by his widow includes six complete sermons and six prayers.
